One Year Three Months One Month.

Subscribers, whose papers were disc when the mail facilities were cut off in Southern Kentucky and Tennessee, can obtain them now by giving us notice where they received them and where they now wish them forwarded for the time paid for.

Our Agent at Cumberland Gap. Lieutenant A. J. Harrington, Company A, Twenty-second Kentucky Volunteers, is agent for the Louisville Democrat.

The Lower House of the Legislature has passed a bill providing for a draft, which, we presume, will be substantially adopted by the Senate. Its main provisions are, in our opinion, judiciously

We may premise, however, that the quote of the 300,000 for three years has not yet been assigned, and we do not know how many regiments exactly will be required. Our quota to be drafted for nine months' service will be the same, as there are to be 300,000 of them raised. It is understood that volunteers for nine months will not be needed at all at present, and not until our quota of three yesrs' men is full. We be- able income. Now, Mr. Editor, I know you ments are in order. Some will prefer enlisting in them, as their immediate friends and neighbors are there already. If these regiments are net filled up with volunteers. and also the new regiments of infantry for three years' service, they will be filled by a draft.

So we believe the matter stands; and now for the mode of drafting, as provided in this bill. The militia are to be divided into as many classes as there are men required. Say if one in every ten of the militia is required, then the division will be in classes of ten. This division is to be made by a Commissioner, appointed in each county. Then the day for the draft comes at the place appointed. Each class is drafted separately. If they can induce one of their number to go without drafting, they are released from the draft; or if they can provide a substitute outside, not subject to draft, or not drafted, he will be accepted, and no draft of that class will be required. If no one is provided after an hour and a half's consultation, then the draft takes ficient, and cull it of its objectionable feaplace. The process is simple and impar- tures. tial, so as to equalize the chances. Those who are already in the service, or who have larly discharged, are not subject to draft. A drafted man is at liberty to find a substibute.

Citizens of the State who absent themselves will not avoid the draft.

There is one provision just between matter, but very unjust to individuals. When a county has already furnished its full quota of all the requisitions hitherto promised every loyal man in it—as many made, including the present, it is not subfull quota of all the requisitions hitherto ject to draft at all, and each county is in some counties; the Union men having, by their patriotic action, relieved them of the burden. We can't consider this just to raise ten thousand troops by the State for individuals. If this feature is retained the have thus relieved them by volunteering.

It will be seen that there is no way to escape this draft, but by promptly filling up was proposed by the bill, should be subject the old regiments and the new ones of three to the order of the Governor, as commanderyears' men. Then the War Department in-chief, to be moved to any quarter of the will, no doubt, accept volunteers for the nine will, no doubt, accept volunteers for the nine months' service. For obvious reasons the volunteers for the three years' service will proposed that the five thousand should be months' service. For obvious reasons the have precedence.

Practically, in our judgment, the time will make little difference, as there is at be a regular State army. least no probability that this war will last over twelve months more. When our present requisition is filled, and gets into the can see from this that the State is in earnfield, it will make short work of the armies est and is resolved to expel maranders from of the rebels; and although a large military force may be required for some time, most of those now required will be discharged.

Recollect, the way to end this matter and all teachers of public schools, prevent, too, the effusion of blood, is to be required to take an oath of allegiance. hasten up an overwhelming number. Each additional volunteer is some security for additional volunteer is some security for the life and safety of the one who preceded him. Send enough and little resistance That, I believe, was the question. If any will be possible.

COME HOME! COME HOME!-Let every loval citizen now absent from Louisville come home. Your duty is here where your 21st, contains the following letter from a interests are, and it is no time to be pleas- gentleman at Danville, to his friend in ure-seeking abroad. Come home, and be that city, which may be considered reliready to do your duty. If you do not go able: into active service, your presence is needed here. We want the loyal men to stand in solid phalanx. Let the quasi traitors, the sneaks, whose property and persons have been protected by the Government, run away when there is a possibility of needaway when there is a possibility of need-ing their services. Let them be marked are said to be on the road leading to Mount through all time as traiters, and unworthy the glorious inheritance vouchsafed them by our Revolutionary fathers. Their property remains, and may perhaps be made to bear some of the burden they shirk. The loyal men of Louisville should present an unbroken front.

MAN SHOT BY GEN. LOAN .- Friday Gen. Loan ordered a Lieutenant in Price's army to be shot at Laclede. He was charged with he was serenaded, and appeared on the several crimes, and among them the killing of the pilot of the White Cloud. He was once before condemned to be shot by a military commission in Missouri, but escaped. He confessed almost everything charged. After a full examination, he was sentenced by Gen. Loan to be shot to death. After informing him of the verdict and sentence. and asking him if he had any word to leave his friends, or anything to say, he said he had not, and told them to shoot and be d-d. He said he knew they dare not ran from the field to the woods, leaving shoot him. He was led out beside his coffin, and ordered to kneel, but he swore he never did kneel before the face of clay, and never would, and standing up, he received the volley and fell dead on his coffin.

[Correspondence of the Louisville Democrat.] FRANKFORT-TURNPIKE ROADS-EXTENSION OF TIME AND DRAFTING-10,000 MEN TO BE CALLED OUT IN THE STATE SERVICE. FRANKFORT, Aug. 21. Messrs. Editors: Whatever other changes may have taken place, I can assure you there is no change in Frankfort-not a dime, not a five cents. It is the same town-same houses, with one or two improvements, and the same hills. Anold citizen says it is questionable whether the hills or the town was built first, but my vote is for the hills, just upon presumptive evidence. There is something classic, however, in the air that envelops it, and the memories that cluster around it. It is not the gaudy, gilt-gingerbread tinsel of your bustling city, but something staid, somber, And prove you love the race, your country loveand yet agreeable. There is beauty in a brown stone front, a trim parterre, and Your country's foe is yours, no matter who blooming roses in gardens, but there is

A prayerless hero, with a high command;
Or, if you choose, a Bishop covered o'er castles crowned with ivy, within whose solid walls are still stately rooms and lofty corridors, alive with beauty as they are rich with memories. That is a large city versus Frankfort. Which would you prefer, the modern mansion or the Gothic castle?

I hear you answer at once: "Either place will do, provided you have an income to support it." Give us your hand, my boy. You speak the sentiments of my own heart, and it's a pity we are in such a minority in this world. Let us hope that our numbers will increase until all the world is willing to live in a comfortable place on a comfortlieve that volunteers to fill up the old regi- are asking what all this has to do with the fight at John Rice's, and I will come to the point. The fact is, I was inspired by Frank-fort, and this exordium was like a scrap of verse that will keep singing and singing in your ears until you speak it out and are done with it. But now I will come to the point. You wan't to hear all about the wars-I mean the Legislature. Well, it is pretty well, I thank you. I popped in there this morning and saw the amendment to a railread turnpike company bill passed, and immediately thanked God that the country was saved. Jesting aside, the Houses have gone into general business, not confining themselves to the state the nation. Before censure is passed upon them for this, the people should understand that a considerable time say several days, had to be passed before the Committee on Military Affairs, the Ju-diciary, and other committees, could report anything for the Houses to act upon. Legislature would have been perfectly idle during this preliminary period, and you know the remark of Doctor Watts, upon a similar occasion, about the gentleman in black providing occupation for those who had nothing to do. They are beginning, however, to act. There is a bill to re-enact

A discussion also arose upon the question of drafting, as to counties which had furnished their quota—say a county of a thou-sand had furnished five hundred, would it There is one provision just between be right to draft in that county? Upon its face it would seem that they should be exempt; but it was urged, upon the other side, that so far from its relieving them, it would be better to urge it there. A county has ject to draft at all, and each county is credited upon the present requisition with what it has furnished over previous ones.

In this way the Secesh will escape a draft cate for a review. You will have the bill in full, in time, and can comment for your selves. There appears to be a general agreement Legislature ought to tax those thus exempted, in order to pay a bonus to those who have thus relieved them by volunteering. as I understand, were not to be removed State that might be attacked, and to be paid

DANVILLE, Aug. 20, 1862. Dear Sir: The news here this morning is, that there have been no troops at Somerset except the first batch of cavalry that passed through on Saturday. At London they attacked the Third Tennessee and drove them back, and Garrard came up and drove them Vernon, Garrard occupying the Somerset road. There are no rebels at Richmond. It is said Garrard cut them up considerably -how bad I don't know. Not much loss on our part,

CASSIUS M. CLAY .- The Pittsburg Dispatch

This distinguished public man, just returned from the Court of St. Petersburg, arrived in the city yesterday, stopping at the Monongahela House. In the evening balcony in response to loud calls. He spoke for over an hour, on the war and its surroundings, and was enthusiastically cheered. Judge Shannon followed in a few remarks, paying a high compliment to the distin-guished Kentuckian.

SKIRMISH NEAR MEMPHIS .- We learn that there was a fierce skirmish yesterday about thirteen miles from Memphis, on the old Hernando road. The forces engaged on the other side were a portion of Jeff. Thompson's cavalry. The contest lasted only about fifteen minutes, when the Confeds their killed and wounded behind. The Confeds had one killed and two wounded one of the latter mortally. George Butler, a young man formerly of this city, was slightly wounded. He belonged to Sherwin's cavalry.

C. Carroll, and A. D. Kelly, having been absent from the city at the time of drawing up the original card "Advising Planters not to send Produce to New Orleans," but on their return having deemed it advisable to issue a card placing themselves in the same position, are hereby taxed in the sum of $500 each in accordance with General Order By order of Major General Butler. R. S. Davis, Captain and A. A. A. G. Under the caption "Tribulation in Carondelet street-Excitement among the Cotton Factors," the Delta thus speaks of the gentlemen whom Gen. Butler's order drew out to condole with one another: It is refreshing to contemplate the sorrew ful visages of this funeral crowd. Some of them had been taxed hundreds and some to the tune of thousands, but all alike bore the solemn aspects of unresisting muttons led silently to slaughter. They had made their money easy, to be sure, but parting with it was like pulling teeth. Some of these men are worth a million or so; a few, perhaps, as much as ten millions, in real estate, stocks, bonds and expectations; and others again are known as poor men, tolerably well to do, and worth only from three to five hundred thousand dollars apiece. For these latter to be taxed as high as a hun-dred dollars, out of the little savings which they had laid up, by means of two and a half per cent. for advancing on cotton crops, and two and a half per cent. commissions, and yet other per centage for brokerage and stealage, seemed rather hard —at least to them! No wonder that they growled. Jacob Barker's last growl at the atest hit of the Delta was as nothing in depth and intensity to that which welled up om the little cavernous offices and rolled along the flags of the great mart of Caron-in the once busy streets and poverty flouted its rags under your aristocratic noses for the want of the privilege to work! Launch out, then, the needful, you favored ones of the higher walks of trade, and let the poor have work. This slight phlebotomizing of your plethoric purses will feed thousands of the deserving, and you be mone the worse. By Monday, the 11th inst., the time limited by the order, we hope to see yeu all come up to the terms prescribed; and for our part we shall be happy to give so flattering an account of you.

(Tribune's Letter.) HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF VIRGINIA,) CEDAR MOUNTAIN, VA., Aug. 18.

Again on the march and that march s retreat. The camp which, only yesterday, was pitched at the foot of the mountain, now memorable forever, was dissolved this afternoon into thin air, and headquarters are here without a camp, but here only for an hour or three hours, it matters not which. The hurried order came to be ready to start at once and before two hours had passed tents and luggage, all of headquarters but its personnel, were going to the rear. We understand it is whispered that the whole Army of Virginia is in retreat North, perhaps; but before the North, before Washington, before Fredericks-burg is reached, the hardest, fiercest.

most determined and desperate battles of the war are to be fought. This army is not running away, nor is General Pope out-generaled yet by Stonewall Jackson. Threatened on the left flank by an army that counts its hundreds of thousands of miserable and dispirited troops, the army of Virginia retreats indeed; but it retreats begins to maneuver. The battles of this war are about to begin.

NEW YORK, August 22. A most elegant dinner was given to General Wilcox last evening at Atheneum Club, on Fifth Avenue, by our fellow-citizen, W. T. Blodgett, in which he was joined by a few personal friends of the General.
Among the distinguished guests were Major General Mitchel, Major Opdyke, Hon. Hiram Barney, Charles H. Marshall, David Dudley, General Asboth, Colonel Bayley Meyers, Colonel F. Howe, Captain Hodges, and others, all of whom made short, capital speeches, which, as the occasion was not of a public nature, we refrain from publishing.

The speech of General Mitchel was one of the most beautiful and patriotic of the astronomer General. Gen. Wilcox, in closing a very interesting account of his prison experience, which he modestly requested would not be made public, expressed himself as laying no claims to be considered a martyr, and only hoped for recognition of such services as he may be enabled to render his country in the field, to which he ardently wished he might be speedily assigned. Gen. Wilcox might be speedily assigned. Gen. Wilcox ecute laws in their own wa will return to the West in a few days, where it is expected important duties will be assigned him.

1st. All fugitives thus employed must be egistered; the names of the fugitives and laimant given, and must be borne upon the orning report of the command in which they are kept, showing how they are employed.

2d. Fugitives may be employed as laborers in the Quartermaster's, Subsistence, and Engineer's Departments; and whenever by such employment a soldier may be saved to its ranks, they may be employed as teamsters and as company cooks, not exceeding four to a company, or as hospital attend-ants and nurses. Officers may employ them as private servants, in which latter case the fugitives will not be paid or rationed by the Government. Negroes thus employed must be secured as authorized persons, and will be excluded from the camps.

3d. Officers and soldiers are positively rohibited from enticing slaves to leave their masters. When it becomes necessary to employ this kind of labor the commanding officers of the post or troops must send details, always under charge of a suitable commissioned officer, to press into service the slaves of persons to the number re-4th. Citizens within reach of my milita

y station, known to be disloyal and dangerous, may be ordered away or arrested, and their crops and stock taken for the benefit of the Government or the use of the army.

> THE NEW IRONSIDES .- This mighty engine of war was hauled out into the stream yesterday, and she now lies at anchor in morning, and although not provided a pass we were admitted on board in our reportorial capacity, through the courtesy of the officer of the day. Everything on and about the ship gave evidence of activity and preparation. The river was covered with boats bearing officers and visitors to and from the vessel, and with lighters carrying material, baggage, and supplies. On board there was the systematic sort of con-fusion usually incident to the getting to sea of ships which have but recently left the stocks. Joiners were at work finishing up the wooden fixtures of the interior, machinists were busy among the powerful engines and their appurtenances, men were carrying luggage, &c., about; while looming up portentously among the materials so freely scattered around were the immense guns which will soon be sending iron compliments to the disciples of Jeff. Davis. There were numerous visitors on board this morning, and all the decks of the huge craft swarmed with people who were either busily engaged in preparing her for sea, or

J. J. Porter, of Monkato, a member of the ate Minnesota Legislature, arrived here last evening for arms. He was one of the committee sent to New Ulm to learn the truth of the reported murders. He arrived at New Ulm Tuesday morning, and found the people preparing to bury five persons murdered, and Nouman, who, it is ascertained, are others being constantly brought in most still efficient in the discharge of their rehorribly mutilated. He saw four persons wounded in one room—cut with hatchets in the head and arms. One little girl was cut across the face, breast, and side. A little boy was dreadfully cut up; also a middleaged woman.

The light from the burning bnildings and grain stacks was seen in all directions. Escaped citizens came into the fort during the night, giving accounts of horrors too terrible for imagination to conceive. Mothers came in rags and barefooted, whose husbands and children were slaughter-ed before their eyes. Children came in who witnessed the murder of their parents and burning them in their own houses.
